The following report dated January 20, 1937, regarding a Chinese student named Sheng Tseng Yien has been received by the local Japanese Consular Police from the Tokyo Police:-

Sheng Tseng Yien (盛 澄 漢), aged 23, native of Siao Haien (蕭 縣), Chekiang Province, graduated from the Chekiang University Agricultural School, Hanchow, in June 1934, and arrived in Tokyo in October of the same year for the purpose of studying Japanese language. Between February and March, 1935, he was taught Japanese by Hamako Watanabe, a communist suspect, residing at No. 59 Komagome Sadagicho, Hongo Ward. He also attended the Toha School in Kanda Ward. In March, 1936, he was admitted to the Special Class of the First High School, Tokyo.

He is suspected of being connected with communists prior to his arrival in Japan. On several occasions he interviewed Sakuro Watanabe, a relative of Hamako Watanabe, who is now attempting to reestablish the "Zenkyo", a communist labour union.

Sheng has given the sum of Yen 170 to Hamako Watanabe for living expenses. He also intended to supply funds to further the activities of Sakuro Watanabe.

As it is considered that the Sheng's residence in Japan was detrimental to peace and order he was instructed to leave the country. He left for Shanghai by the s.s. "Taishan Maru" which sailed from Yokohama on January 19, 1937.
